THE CHRISTMAS STORE

Prettily decorated with an attractive stock of useful presents at reasonable prices, extends to you a hearty invitation to inspect its various departments.

Christmas being so near, everyone is imbued with the Christmas spirit, AND SO ARE WE. Favor us by a call, we'll appreciate it, and endeavor to make you glad you came. First, by giving you with every dollar you spend, one nifty box of Quality Chocolates, which means a ten per cent. discount to you. Second, with each half pound or pound of Quality or Premiere Chocolates purchased, we present one or two tickets on the beautiful five pound box of Quality Chocolates to be given away on Christmas Eve. Third, by giving each customer a very pretty 1912 calendar.

A few of the many lines in which I have always taken great pride,—my stationery department, both the regular and Xmas boxes.—This year the display is unusually attractive, a big line of twenty-five cent boxes. Crane's Linen Lawn in hand painted boxes, and many other beautiful designs from 50 cents to $2.75 a box.

My confectionery department is just loaded with good things,—a very fine line of 20 cent candies, and the popular Quality and Premiere line, that you all know is good, in fancy Xmas boxes, never as pretty as this year. The Quality Chocolates in bulk sell regularly all the time at 50 cents a pound. Try a pound and get two tickets on the Xmas Box that I am to give away. Nearly two barrels of that delicious Ribbon Candy that the children all like so well, 15 cents a pound.

Christmas and New Year Post Cards and Booklets,—a line that is distinctive and different,—must be seen to be appreciated. A fine lot of Post Card Albums, and a nice line of Calendars from 5 cents up to $1.00 a piece.

Perfumes and Sachets,—many new odors, all exquisite. A bottle of Flower Drops, the finest perfume made, makes a nice Xmas gift,—one drop diffuses the odor of a thousand blossoms. Maxine Elliott Soap, 3 cakes for 25 cents, 6 cakes (a box) for 50 cents, a fine picture of Maxine Elliott with every 3 cakes free. The equal of many of the higher priced soaps.

Books, Juveniles, Children's, Boys' and all the late 50 cent copyrights,—a big stock from which to make your selections.

The Century Double Feed Fountain Pens,—don't experiment, buy the best. If you haven't one, you certainly need one, and the Century is the one to buy, simple in construction, beautiful in design, prices from $2.00 and upwards. Self Fillers from $2.50 and upwards. A good Fountain Pen, too, for $1.00, $1.25 and $1.50.

A few of the many other nice things that we carry are Toilet Cases, Manicure Sets, a fine line of Ladies' Hand Bags from 50 cents to $5.00, Mesh Bags from 50 cents to $1.00, Collar and Cuff Boxes, Brush and Comb Sets, Shaving Sets, Smoker's Sets, Handkerchief Boxes, Lap Tablets, Gentlemen's Dressing Cases, Jewel Cases, Military Brushes. A fine line of Ladies' and Gentlemen's Pocket Books, etc.

ASK TO SEE THE SAWYER PICTURES. MANY NEW LOCAL VIEWS.

With compliments of the season, we wish you a Merry and a Happy Christmas.

IMPORTANCE OF HEALTHY KIDNEYS

Bethel Readers Should Learn to Keep the Kidneys Well.

The kidneys have a big work to do. All the blood in the body is coursing through the kidneys constantly to be freed of poisonous matter. It is a heavy enough task when the kidneys are well, but a cold, chill, fever or some thoughtless exposure is likely to irritate, inflame and congest the kidneys and interrupt the purifying work.

Then the aching begins, and it is usually accompanied by some irregularity of the urine—too frequent passages, sediment or retention. Thousands testify to the wonderful merit of Doan's Kidney Pills, a remedy for the kidneys only, that has been used in kidney troubles 75 years. You will make no mistake in following this Bethel citizen's advice.

A. L. Holt, carpenter, Elm St., Bethel, Me., says: "I consider Doan's Kidney Pills a reliable kidney remedy. They proved effective in my case removing backache and restoring my kidneys to a normal condition."

Dec 14 and 21.

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

PART THIRTY.

(As the Local History matter that appeared in the last issue of the Citizen was a continuation of the previous week the materials used should have been the same as appear above. The repetition is here made rather than to disturb matter prepared for future use. Commencing next week and continuing in three or more of the issues of the Citizen will appear some notes on the numerous Wilson family covering from time to time, a period of more than 250 years, beginning at Kittery, Me., and following the descent to Wilson's Mills in the Magalloway region of Oxford County, where John M. Wilson, Esq., located in 1834, whose earthly remains rest upon the farm where he first saw the light of day in a Portland suburb, under a marble monument manufactured in Bethel.)

"Dec. 10. Diphtheria has been alarmingly prevalent in Porter and Kears Falls. It has been impossible to secure proper help in some cases. A lady was dying, recently, and a crowd drew about the house, not daring to enter. The minister went to the window and offered a prayer. The sick woman came to the window and called her little boy, and gave him and all in her hearing a parting farewell. The Oxford Democrat says the scene was truly heartrending."

"Peter Powers, aged 75, was killed by a falling tree at Bethel, last Saturday."

"Hon. A. H. Walker, of Bridgton, was recently married at Lovell, to Mrs. Emma T. Wood of that town. The Bridgton News publishes this poetical epigram suggested by the court:

"Judge W.—began to feel
The pinching of the cold air,
And of the warmth in right good coal
He'd not believe a word, sir.
"There's Wood," he says, in Lovell town,
And that is what I want, sir,
To keep me warm this winter through,
And cheer my lonely room, sir."

Then off he went, the worthy Squire
With ox teams, we supposed, sir.
We thought the price of wood would fall
Through all the country-side, sir.
But, 'lawful sakes! what did we see,
When back to town he came, sir,
Instead of heaps on heaps of wood,
He brought his arms just full, sir."

"Wm. E. Skillings & Co. are moving their spot and bath machinery from Haverhill, Vt., to Bethel, where they will carry on their business in the steam mill owned by Mr. Skillings. They will have twelve pool finishing machines running by the first of April, requiring 1,000,000 feet of white birch annually to supply them. They also advertise for 500,000 feet of yellow birch, white and rock maple."

"Sweden is a thriving town, but has neither lawyer, minister, doctor, nor blacksmith."

"Of the minor industries of Maine that of gathering chewing gum is not the least interesting. A writer in the Lewiston Journal estimates the yearly income from this source at $40,000. He further says: "We once met an Indian who spent his winters in gathering gum in the northern forests of this State. He told me he got as much as a dollar and half a pound for the gum article sometimes; but this was the day of high prices. The gum, he said, exuding as a soft glick, required years to harden to a proper consistency, and then could only be obtained from trees thirty or forty years old. It can only be gathered in cool weather, otherwise it would melt into a sticky mass when carried out on the backs of the gum men. He told of a man and his wife who camped out in the woods for three months. He gathered and the gummen, and at the end of the season they came out of the woods with five hundred dollars worth, enough to set a waggon full of the raw gum to the mill in the State City. The great markets for gum are in the manufacturing cities, where the operatives seem to find a pleasure in their labor by chewing it."

"Dec. 17. The Bethel steam mill is to be changed to a spot factory, and will employ 150 men."

"Fire in Maine.—W. E. Skillings & Co.'s steam mill, handling lumber, and stable with five horses, Bethel, Nov. 24, 1911; Insurance, $12,000."

"Dec. 17, 1911. The late A. K. Shurtliff made the following bequests: to the Portland Benevolent and Portland Protestant Society, each $1,000; Portland F. W. O. Orphan Asylum, $1,000; Bethel Society, April Women's Home, each $1,000; Martha Washington

Society and Female Charitable Association, each $500; Colby University, $1,000; Maine General Hospital, $5,000 for a permanent free bed for the use of residents of Oxford County; to Albert G. Page and Augusta Woodman, $1,000 each in appreciation of faithful service; making a total of $17,000; the remainder of his estate is divided between his brothers and sisters.

(Ambrose K. Shurtliff, son of Alva Shurtliff, an early settler of Norway, was born there Aug. 12, 1815. In 1829 he went to Portland where he remained till the day of his death, which was Jan. 3, 1890, engaging during a part of his life in the wholesale grocery trade, from which business he retired in 1860, having secured a competency. He held many offices—several years a member of the Portland City government, director of the Portland and Rochester railroad, trustee of the Maine Savings Bank, Vice-President of the Board of Trade and fifteen years president of the National Traders Bank. His wife was Lorena, daughter of Seth Chase of Paris. He left no children, his estate going as above stated. A brother, named Sylvan, more than 80 years of age, resides in Portland, and at last advises a sister at South Paris, known by the name of Mrs. Nancy D. Whitman.)

"Jan. 31. The Norway Advertiser is revived by Simeon Drake, and no one would ever guess it had ever died."

"The loftiest peak in Maine, Mt. Katahdin, having an elevation of 5,285 feet—stands only in the sixth rank in the scale of elevation, being less than one mile high. The next elevations are the isolated peaks of Saddleback, Abraham and Bigelow in the Kennebec basin. The White Mountain range may be said to begin with Katahdin, and taking in the summits above-named in its broken, southwestern course, it strikes the Androscoggin valley and crossing it terminate in the great cluster on the broad plateau south of that

THE HOME CIRCLE.

Pleasant Reveries—A Column Dedicated to Tired Mothers as they Join the Home Circle at Evening Tide.

INFLUENCE VERSUS AUTHORITY.

The following little story will interest the mothers I feel sure, and possibly suggest a way to control boys that are inclined to be stubborn. When a boy is verging into manhood he hates to be commanded. Many mothers make the mistake of asserting their authority until the boy rebels and withdraws wholly from their influence. Stubborn will be the hardest thing in human nature to control. If subject to too much government they become perversely and led into bad habits and sometimes crime. If rightly directed such boys will make the smartest men.

"I suppose Fred is going to the ball game at Watlington this afternoon?" "I had not heard of it," Mrs. Boyce answered her neighbor. "Fred went to his aunt's for lunch, so I have not seen him since morning. Is it not a more than usually rough crowd they get into at these Watlington games?" "Oh, yes," Mrs. Denham sighed. "I hate to have Harold go, but he is too old for my authority now. He will do about as he pleases, except when I can induce his father to interfere. He does not dare yet to disobey his father."

Fred came in, later, while the ladies were discussing some other subject. With an apology for the interruption, he hastened to state his errand. "I looked in to tell you not to worry if I am not on time for dinner. Some of our fellows are going to Watlington, to the ball game. We aren't likely to get an earlier train back than the six thirty."

"To Watlington?" Mrs. Boyce asked up at him. "Do you mean quite the sort of men and boys at these games that you prefer? I remember your account of the last one."

"Oh, one meets all sorts, of course,"

Needle Books Given Away.

A most useful little present, indispensable to every housekeeper, a needle book, containing forty of the best needles made, will be sent free to any address. With your request for this needle book, enclose a yellow wrapper from a bottle of "L. F." Atwood's medicine, stating your experience or opinion of the remedy. Write today to the L. F. Medicine Co., Portland, Maine.

Fred carefully answered. "One can choose one's friends among them." But he did not go away at once; he walked about the room aimlessly while his mother and Mrs. Denham resumed their conversation.

"Honestly, I don't. I can't see the good of needless rubbing against these rougher elements of society. There are other games going on, from time to time, that are free from the worst features of these Watlington gatherings. 'But'—she smiled at him again—"you must do as you feel best. You are really a better judge than I, because I don't go to any of the games, you know."

Fred lingered a while longer, looking annoyed and undecided, and finally went away without further remark. "They are all alike!" Mrs. Denham sighed. "You can keep girls at home, but boys—you must let them go their own way and trust to good fortune."

Just as Mrs. Denham had gathered up her sewing to go home, she made a sound of surprise, looking out of the window.

"Why, here is Fred! He didn't go to Watlington after all."

Mrs. Boyce looked less surprised. "Fred rarely does what he knows I do not approve," she said with content.

"How do you manage it?" Mrs. Denham's experiences and anxieties were betrayed in her quick question.

Mrs. Boyce hated to talk of her "method," whether in the management of her children or in her housekeeping. But she knew Mrs. Denham to be an earnest and conscientious mother, and she felt called to let her light "abine before men."

"Fred was a wilful and opinionated little boy, and I had many anxious hours of thought about how I should be able to control him after he had reached the age when, as you say, a boy will not bear commands. It seemed necessary to find something that would hold when authority should fail; and I could think of only one hope,—my personal influence. So I studied to make that strong. I tried to train myself to judge wisely, so that he might not have to regret following my advice. I have been careful not to weaken my influence by trying to use it when I could see plainly that it would prevail against his beliefs and desires. I cannot always hold him; but I believe I hold him more securely, and shall be able to hold him longer, than if my only dependence were on my maternal authority. Meanwhile, from first to last, I have been working to establish the only solid foundation for right conduct,—right principles; for even the influence of a mother cannot be the man's guide. I should think your boy Harold was a more tractable boy than Fred, and more responsive to suggestions, and your task should be easier than mine."

"Harold is a good boy," Mrs. Denham's eyes filled with tears. "I believe I have driven him into opposition by commanding him too much. Let me thank you for your timely help."

"Thought I wouldn't go," Fred announced, indifferently, when he entered in. "They say it will be a one-sided game, dead sure for the Watlington's. There's the Hyfield game next week, anyhow; good straight fellows, these Hyfield boys." "Mary Markland Haley."

Wins Fight For Life.

It was a long and bloody battle for life that was waged by James B. Merston, of Newark, N. J., of which he writes: "I had lost much blood from lung hemorrhages, and was very weak and run-down. For eight months I was unable to work. Death seemed close on my heels, when I began, three weeks ago, to use Dr. King's New Discovery. But it has helped me greatly. It is doing all that you claim." For weak, sore lungs, obstinate coughs, stubborn colds, hoarseness, influenza, asthma, hay-fever or any throat or lung trouble it's supreme. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by Chas. Fernald, Nathan Reynolds, Canton; H. J. Reynolds of Biddeford; C. A. Gardiner of Dixfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Henshaw of Bethel, Me., visited Mr. Henshaw's parents, Sunday.

Mr. J. Leroy East, a former guest of Henshaw, was in the village, on Tuesday.

Friday night will be observed at Bethel as the Old Folks' Day of the town.

Miss W. F. Henshaw and wife spent the week end with Mr. Henshaw at Bethel, Me.

Miss Fred E. Henshaw has been spending a week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Henshaw, at Bethel.

Mr. H. A. Henshaw has been suffering from the grip since Monday and is attended with pneumonia. Dr. Wright is attending him and Dr. Tibbels was called in consultation Tuesday night. He is being cared for by Mr. Henshaw's mother.

W. R. Wright of Henshaw has sent to the Henshaw office an agent representing a number of acres. The agent is apparently from the Northern New York and one fourth Henshaw, the name of the agent being as distinct as an accident could make them with the truth.

Miss Lillian Henshaw, who was injured by being thrown from a wagon about three weeks ago, and has since been unable to do any of her house work, is now able to do her house work. She is recovering from the accident so that she can be expected to be in good shape to her many friends in giving them the best of her health.

For the past few days, a good many people have been visiting the Henshaw office. All of them are very much interested in the Henshaw office. They are all very much interested in the Henshaw office.

VICTORIA

Suction Carpet Sweeper

A new method, by which you can sweep your carpet by air. Don't fail to see it, if you do not examine it now, the time may come when you will wish you had.

The Only Carpet Sweeper on Earth, made on the suction principle and working by self-generated air draft, thus forcing the dirt out of the carpet and up into the pan without effort and without injury to the most delicate floor coverings.

Remember there is a difference between a Carpet Sweeper and a Carpet Rubber. By using the VICTORIA you will not injure your Carpets as it sweeps by suction. Four Black Fans in the cylinder create a vacuum that sucks the sand, dirt and moth out of the carpet and the soft bristles of the brush carry it into the dust pan. Can be adjusted for use on carpets, rugs, matting or floors. Hence there is no scraping or wearing of your carpets like there is when using the so-called broom action sweepers with their stiff brushes. These Sweepers have been demonstrated in the village during the past three weeks and meet the approval of thrifty housekeepers; over fifty were sold in that time.

See it, learn what it is, examine it now at
